Relief and WPA Dwindle To Low Figures in Marion City and County

War-time Employment Cuts Lists to Only Small Fraction of Depression Peak.

Government-created relief programs, state and national, which years ago were the big problems of the new No. 1 Marion residents, now are forgotten that back in the days when relief rolls were heavy, the persons were on the relief rolls in Marion county. The government program for relief has begun to lower the WPA roster to some 50.

June Record
In June, some 107 relief cases were receiving help, at a cost of $1,921.48, including some of expense as the WPA project.

This, incidentally, was $500 less than the advance estimate of June requirements.

In contrast with this, the corresponding figures for January of 1940 were 690 relief cases and the cost was $7,605.21. By January of 1941 they had dropped to 318 cases and $3,294.82, and by January of this year to 193 cases and $3,650.52.

War production, brought about most of the change, opening job opportunities for almost every employable person.

The same trend is shown in the figures for the portions of the county outside of city limits. The rural relief bill load in June this year was 29 cases and the total expenses, including WPA sponsor costs and other charges, amounted to $1,466.88. Back in January of 1940 there were 123 cases and the expense was $3,074.07. These figures dropped in January of 1941 to 99 cases and $2,921.65 and in January of 1942 to 45 cases, and $1,854.37.

Only Three Projects Now

The WPA program provided jobs and incomes for hundreds of Marion county residents over a period of years. The recent closing of the recreation center on South Prospect street, where some 20 persons were employed, left only three projects in operation, aside from the vocational training program at Harding High school which is a new phase of WPA endeavor that prepares workers for war industrial jobs. The three other projects now left are the commodities distribution staff of four persons, the household aid project employing 13 women and the sewing center employing 11 women. Actually, aside from the vocational training program which is entirely a war project, there are only 28 persons on WPA in the county today.

As matters stand, there is no opportunity for new assignments on WPA, except at the vocational training school. Transfers from one project to another are permitted, but no new assignments can be made.

OFFICERS INSTALLED BY CHURCH WOMEN'S GUILD

Meeting Held by First Evangelical and Reformed Society.

Mrs. Dora Jones, Mrs. Edna Andrews and Mrs. Oscar Retterer were hostesses when the Women's Guild of the First Evangelical and Reformed church met in the church parlors Wednesday evening for the regular monthly meeting.

Newly-elected officers were installed by Rev. E. W. Weirich. They are Miss Dora Jacobs, president; Mrs. Mabel Matthews, secretary; Miss Lillian Plack, treasurer; Mrs. Esther Knickle, girls' guild secretary; Mrs. Martha Ralston, literature secretary; Mrs. Emma Feichlin, thank offering secretary; Mrs. Agnes Wohlshar, missionary secretary; Maude Weber, Christian citizenship secretary; Mrs. Lois Augenstein, historian; Mrs. Grace Hoffman, social service chairman; Mrs. Irma Wierth, membership chairman; Mrs. Marie Retterer, stewardship chairman; and Mrs. Irma Pfeiderer, program chairman.

The program included a lesson study conducted by Mrs. Esther Knickle and Mrs. Freda Warner and solos by Miss Wanda Hickman and Mrs. Houser.

G.O.P. Voters' Opposition To U.S. In World League Fades, Gallup Poll Shows

A historic change in the viewpoint of Republican party voters is shown in the above results of a Gallup poll on the question whether the United States should join a League of Nations.

By GEORGE GALLUP
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J., July 6.—After watching the events of the last two years, the American public has undergone a profound change in viewpoint on international affairs—a change which may determine the whole future course of American political history.

Isolationism, the doctrine of the nineteen-twenties and thirties, has given way to a great revival of interest in some kind of world league or concert of nations after the war.

The change has been most marked in the rank and file of the Republican party. The consistent isolationist of the American public, the last League of Nations, the elder Henry Cabot Lodge, and the C. O. P. enemies of the League, Wendell Willkie, will shudder.

Not only that, the country as a whole is now in favor of American participation in a post-war world league, but that in the Republican party the number approving such a step has increased from four in every 10 to seven in every 10 in the short space of one year.

This historic change is revealed in a sampling of the country by the American Institute of Public Opinion. A long-term trend of sentiment on the League question has been kept by means of nationwide opinion surveys repeated at intervals since 1937.

The changes in the Republican party and for the nation as a whole are shown in the following table based on the vote of those with opinions:

REPUBLICANS.
Favor U. S. In League Opposed
Oct. 1937	23% 77%
July, 1941	44 56
Today	70 30

ALL VOTERS
Favor U. S. In League Opposed
Oct. 1937	33% 67%
July, 1941	50 50
Today	73 27

Through the years the Institute has found about one voter in every five undecided or without an opinion on the League issue. If the undecided vote is included in today's totals, the national result is 59 per cent in favor of American participation in a League, 22 per cent opposed, and 19 per cent undecided.

G. O. P. Change Recent.
It will be noted that only within the past year have a majority of Republicans come to favor the League idea. One of the factors causing the change has likely been Wendell Willkie's outspoken position in favor of greater American participation in world affairs. Under Mr. Willkie's leadership the Republican national committee accepted a ringing statement of internationalist principles at a meeting in Chicago a few months ago. The drift of events, and the world-wide character of the war, have also played their part in changing public sentiment on international affairs. Institute surveys in the past few years have shown there is a good change in national sentiment on an issue, the chief responsibility is the impact of an event or series of events.

We have read some growth of pro-League sentiment up to last year, the major change came after the Japanese put us into the war by leaving toxic steel-casting yards at Pearl Harbor.

Regional Changes.
There are more remarkable than the G. O. P. reversal is the present attitude of the once-isolationist Middle West, which it actually now is in favor of a League today to the seaboard areas.

The change in sentiment by sections in the last five years is shown below:

Favor U. S. In League
1937	Today
N. Eng. & M. Atl.	71%
East Central	72
West Central	76
South	78
Far West	74

Arguments Pro and Con.
The typical American who favors American entry into a post-war organization gives one or more of the following reasons, the Institute finds:

He believes that some kind of league is the only way to preserve a lasting peace and outlaw future wars, and that no peace will be assured unless economic and political barriers are destroyed. He thinks that a league will not work unless the United States takes a prominent part in it, and that the United States should take a major part for the sole purpose of seeing to it that world conflagrations are not repeated in the future. He believes finally that isolationism is a failure—that the "world is too small now to live by and for ourselves alone."

The voters who take an anti-League view argue on the other hand that the last League was a utter failure, and there is no reason to believe that a new one would be any better. He believes that Europe will always squabble and that the safest position for us is to stay out of those squabbles. He thinks that a new one would be too idealistic for a world dominated by nationalism.

No one knows, of course, what form a post-war organization will take. It may differ greatly in detail from the last League, although the principle of group action will, of necessity, be the same. Even though Russia, Britain and the United States may act as the chief international policemen, nevertheless most observers agree that some cooperative association of nations, big and little, must be worked out if there is to be any world-wide fulfillment of the Four Freedoms, the Atlantic Charter or the present compact among the United Nations.

Today's vote is merely a vote on a principle. The results should not be interpreted as indicating that the public necessarily endorses any particular plan or plan brought forward to date.

DELAWARE, O. July 5.—Vocational agriculture teachers of Marion, Morrow, Union and Delaware counties began gathering today in Brown township community hall to study various farm machinery problems.

This morning the group was to study corn planters at the Brown high school shop and this afternoon a gang plow demonstration was to be given at the Harold Sheets farm.

Tuesday morning power mowers will be studied at the Brown school and four-wheel tractors will be studied in the afternoon. Paul Cunningham county agent, will speak on "Farm Electrical Uses" and there will be a discussion of grain drills.

Wednesday morning corn pickers and corn binders will be studied at the William Rodenfeld tool shed. A duck rake demonstration in the afternoon at the Charles Benard farm will be followed by a discussion of farm machinery operations costs at the school.

Grain binders will be studied Thursday morning at the Rodenfeld tool shed and in the afternoon a tractor tune-up demonstration will be given. Friday the group will hear W. G. Waller of the state vocational agriculture office. In the afternoon the group will attend a combine clinic at the Glenn Sheets farm.

AMERICAN AIR BLOWS SEEN AS BIG STEP
Military Experts Predict Rapid Air Power Development.

By The Associated Press
LONDON, July 6.—American air blows against Germany will develop rapidly on a scale never before envisioned now that the United States air force has spread its wings over Nazi-held territory, military experts predicted today.

The July Fourth opening of an American air front in Europe, they said, meant that at least half of the ground preparation to put the air force into active service had been completed.

They expected the modest beginning, in which six American-flown Boston Bombers took part in a daring daylight sweep on German-held Holland, to mushroom into a full-scale aerial onslaught.

The main factor in opening any new air front is the immense amount of work which must be done on the ground before even one plane can be put into the air," one expert said.

EVERYBODY EVERY PAY DAY 10% OF WAGES IN WAR BONDS

Fair Enough!

IT'S LIKE PUTTING MONEY IN THE BANK!

5 REASONS WHY

- 1 By investing in War Bonds you help provide the planes, the tanks, the guns and the ships we must have to survive and conquer.
- 2 You prove that you are a patriotic American.
- 3 You aid the morale of our fighting men, by showing them that the entire Nation is behind them.
- 4 You prove to our enemies that we are a United People.
- 5 You protect your own financial future, as every $15.75 you invest in a War Bond brings you back $25 in 10 years. You make the world's safest investment, by buying a share in the world's most powerful country.

"Listen, mister... I'm making pretty good wages these days, and so are about fifty million others. And we all think pretty much the same about the way we can help America win the war.

"Save 10% in War Bonds every payday? That's no sacrifice—it's a cinch! Like putting money in the bank.

"Take my wife, for instance. She says it's money we just wouldn't save, otherwise—dough that we just chuck away—with nothing to show for it later.

"But this is the real payoff—

"The money we save in War Bonds is going to produce the planes, the tanks, the ships and the guns to make the Japs wish they'd never even seen Pearl Harbor! It's going to produce the bombs and the bullets to make their honorable 'harakiri' seem like a picnic.

"Do you think we people on the home front want to be left out? Don't you know that the workers, the stenos, the farmers, dentists—every last man and woman of us wants to come through with his share?

"So when they came around in our plant and actually offered to help us save for the War Bonds, you can bet we all said 'yes!'

"Every week they save 10% out of our pay—a dime in every dollar—and when it adds up to $15.75, we get a War Bond—worth $25 in ten years. Yes, sir! A War Bond in our own name, or the Missus, or both!

"Honest, now, do you think we're patting ourselves on the back? Do you think we're asking for praise just because we do our part to hamstring Hirohito and Hitler—and lay away a pile of dough in the bargain?

"How about you? Are you in on this plan? If not, better get in. Better save your 10% every payday. Better do your share to wallop the tar out of the Japs and Huns.

"Say 'sure!' when they come to you...

"It's like money in the bank!"

News Behind the News

Defense of Sevastopol Seen as Example of Stuff That Will Win for Allies.

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, July 5.—Heroic defense of Sevastopol against the most powerful attack ever launched by the United Nations are going to win the war. The Russians held Sevastopol for over a month against one of the most powerful attacks ever launched by the United Nations. The way they did it was, in general, the same way they have held Hitler back in Russia for over a year. Their method is a combination of two things:

1—Ability to adapt their weapons and tactics to natural defenses, and

2—The tenacity to die rather than to give up.

By using a lot of military ingenuity in adapting their defenses to the terrain, the Russians had made Sevastopol one of the strongest fortresses in the world, perhaps second only to Gibraltar.

Sevastopol is built among rocky cliffs and is protected from the land side by a semi-circle of hills. The Nazis had to fight their way over these hills and through the narrow passes. The hills were honeycombed with heavy Russian artillery, pill boxes and machine gun nests; the valleys were cut up with deep ditch tank traps.

It took the Germans, even with their unlimited manpower, gunpowder and airpower, over a month to hammer their way in. They finally did it by absolutely pulverizing Russian defenses with some of the biggest mobile siege guns ever built. Rumors say these guns were over 20-inch, for bigger than the biggest guns on battleships.

Field Marshal Erich von Manstein had 20 to 25 divisions available for the attack on Sevastopol, over 300,000 men, but he could only use three divisions at a time in the narrow approaches to the fortress.

He fought three divisions until they were exhausted, and then he depleted to fight. Then he withdrew those divisions and put in three more, and so on.

All the time the Germans were pulverizing the Russian fixed defenses with their over-sized siege guns, firing at almost point blank range. The concussion from the shells of these guns alone is said to be almost enough to put the ordinary soldier out of action.

The Russians used naval vessels moored in the harbor of Sevastopol as artillery. There were guns fired over the heads of the defenders into the German lines.

Every Russian defender in his pillbox or behind his rock, stayed there until the end. There was no retreat and no surrender.

The city itself, honeycombed with underground shelters and munitions factories carved out of the soft rock was finally pulverized after the Nazis fought close enough in shell it with their heavy artillery. The Russians still fought as the rock crumbled over them.

Memories of Gestapo Inspector General Heydrich are fading now, except among the relatives and comrades of the countless victims who were killed by his bloodlust.

—and except among those, some in official positions here, who wait from day to day in the conviction that the next murder will answer one or more of the following questions:

(1) Is there a vendetta being waged for both military and political control of Germany between the Nazi party and stiff-necked German Army leaders who have a professional disdain for all political movements?

(2) Is there a vendetta within the ranks of the Party itself whereby those new close to the throne seek to protect their positions by the zealous art of assassination?

(3) Is the Nazi party pursuing the remnants of the old Prussian aristocracy, both within the party itself, and within the German army, every element of opposition not only to the party's political aims but also the military pretensions of Adolf Hitler as Commander-in-Chief of both party and army?

The physical details of Heydrich's death apparently are beyond dispute. He was wounded fatally by bullets fired by two men who ambushed his car on the main highway from Prague to Berlin.

The men escaped. Heydrich lay for several days, then died in terrible agony—a death even less merciful than the one which awaited the countless victims who were killed by his bloodlust.

The defenders of Sevastopol knew they would eventually be overwhelmed, but they never showed it in their last-ditch resistance.

Chinese Tenacity While the Russian land armies are the only ones which have been able to stand up against Hitler's onslaughts so far, the Chinese alone have shown the ability to hold out against the Japs.

The main difference between Russian and Chinese resistance to the Axis is that the Russians are fairly well equipped with all modern weapons of war, while the Chinese have nothing but small arms which they make themselves. The Chinese have practically no artillery, few planes.

We were just beginning to get the Chinese equipped with the tools of war they needed when the Burma road was closed. Now there is no practical way of getting help in to them, although they are fighting on.

The Chinese, like the Russians, fight the Axis enemies. They have unlimited manpower, and a vast territory well suited to a fluid defense.

The Russians defend in depth. They let the concentrated German drives go through and close in behind and chew up the armored thrusts. This has forced Hitler to adopt a shorter, inching attack.

The Chinese have not the heavy weapons to stop the well equipped Jap troops, but they close in behind the same way, using guerrilla tactics by which they are taking heavy toll of the Japs.

When a Chinese army is licked it dissolves into thin air. The soldiers become peasants and farmers. Then they become guerrillas and the fighting behind the lines goes on.

The Chinese, in using this defense, have of necessity had to give up much territory, and have the Russians. The Japs have now captured every air base in the so-called invasion area in eastern China—Chongking province. They have also occupied the railways in this area. They have made themselves secure from air attack from this area, but they have not licked the Chinese.

The Japs probably will not try to continue their drive west into China. Their sneaky use of attack could go through behind them, continue guerrilla warfare and hamper their communications.

The Chinese have probably lost 5,000,000 casualties in the last five or six years, but they are fighting on until the time when we can get weapons in to them. When they get the aircraft and artillery, they will be able to start an effective attack on the occupying Japs, but not before.

HENDERSON AT THE DIKE

U. S. Steel Can Overcome The Axis

America 65 Per Cent Ahead of Germany.

THE steel industry of the United States has a production capacity nearly 65 per cent greater than the combined capacity of Germany and all of Axis Europe, reports the magazine Steel Facts. Actual production in this country is probably higher than that of Axis production in the United States so far this year has been running about 97 per cent of capacity. If Germany could operate every iron and steel plant under its control at capacity, total Axis output would be 53,000,000 net tons, against 80,000,000 for the United States.

Of the total steel-making capacity of Axis Europe, the German steel industry has 24,700,000 tons; Italy, 3,000,000; France, 10,700,000; Belgium, 4,500,000; Czechoslovakia, 2,500,000; Poland, 1,700,000; Hungary, 800,000; Austria, 700,000; Luxembourg, 3,000,000; Rumania, 3,000,000. Reports from France and Italy indicate that their steel output has been curtailed by shortages of raw materials and transportation facilities.

"Within its border," Steel Facts continues, "Axis Europe appears to have mines able to produce iron ore, coal and limestone in sufficient quantity to permit operation of all iron and steel plants at capacity. In some cases, however, the mines are many miles away from the plants to be supplied, and the quality of the ore is not the most desirable. Many European countries established steel industries despite the fact that coal or ore were not available nearby."

"Axis Europe apparently faces a great insufficiency in annual production of certain strategic alloying elements, particularly manganese, nickel and chromium. Large reserve stockpiles of these and other alloying metals are known to have been accumulated by Germany for several years before the outbreak of the war. To what extent such stockpiles have since been drawn upon to sustain the high rate of armament production in Axis Europe is not known."

"The countries in Axis Europe are capable of mining only 30 per cent of the manganese, only 40 per cent of the chromium, and only 10 per cent of the nickel which they would need for capacity output of steel for the war machine. Those percentages assume that the war demands for alloy steels in the Axis are proportionate to the alloy steel needs of this country's war program."

BEFORE the war, Germany was almost entirely dependent upon imports for supplies of chromium, nickel, vanadium, cobalt, tin and vanadium, and imported much more than half of the manganese needed. Part of these supplies formerly came from other countries at war with Germany today, or from overseas countries inaccessible because of the naval blockade.

Additional chromium supplies were made available to Axis steel plants by the invasions of Norway, Albania, Greece and Yugoslavia as well as by the domination of Rumania and Bulgaria. The amount now obtainable, however, must still be far below Germany's estimated war needs.

New manganese sources were obtained in France, Bulgaria, Greece, Yugoslavia, Hungary, Czechoslovakia and Poland. In addition, German armies overran the Nikopol mining district in the Russian Ukraine last year, but this area is not many miles from the Southern Russian fighting front, and its usefulness to Axis steel plants is therefore questionable.

The meager nickel reserves of Germany and Italy have been supplemented by those of Finland, Norway and Spain, but even with those additions, a great deficiency must remain in supplying Axis Europe's annual requirements of that alloy.

Along with the use of the steel plants of the occupied countries, Germany has obtained valuable coal and ore resources.

The most important iron ore districts were captured in Lorraine, France, and Krivoy Rog, in the Russian Ukraine. The Lorraine ore has helped to meet Germany's need for richer ores, although this may have necessitated curtailing the supply to the steel plants in France.

MARION'S LITTLE GRAND CIRCUIT RACES

Horses—Horses—Horses

Marion's crazy over fine horse flesh. At least, that is the way it looks now days. With the finest horses that ever wore shoes taking part in The Little Grand Circuit Races now being run here in Marion for the benefit of the Women's Board of The Marion City Hospital.

While these thoroughbreds are doing their best on the dirt track there is another group of horses in Marion that are doing their best too, but, their's is for the war effort. They are the horses that are pulling our milk wagons up and down the streets of Marion to bring you and your neighbors that bottle of MOORES & ROSS MILK fresh each week-day morning thereby, conserving on gasoline, oil, tires and trucks — yes, we feel they are doing their part too.

The use of the Auto is far widespread,
Except for racing the day of the horse was dead;
But for the duration their work won't slack,
In the field, on the street or on the race track.
Race horses perform best in a sulky cart,
And your car will last longer with good Auto Parts.

Son of Marion Co. Couple Marries Columbus Woman

MISS CAROL EPLEY, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Epley, of 247 Kenmore avenue, became the bride of Cadet J. E. Hays, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Hill, of 110 Hare street, in a wedding ceremony, read by Rev. J. R. Boyles, the celebrant, at the Mt. Auburn Methodist church at 515 Main street, at 4 o'clock, on Sunday afternoon, July 5. The bride wore a white off-the-face gown with a pink and white veil and carried a white off-the-face bouquet. Her bridesmaids wore a pink shade.

Mrs. Epley was the daughter of a minister and only attendant. She wore a pink gown with a white collar and a pink shade and her carriage held yellow roses.

The bridegroom and his best man, who was Cadet J. E. Hays, of Scott Field, were in full cadet uniform. Attending the ceremony were Cadet and Mrs. R. H. Smith, of Farmington, Mo., and Cadet S. R. Ballou, of Boston, Mass.

Following the ceremony Cadet R. Ballou of Boston, Mass., and Mrs. Hill attended a banquet at the Coronado hotel, featuring the graduation class at Scott Field at which graduates of the next class were present. Cadet Hill, who is in officers training school at Scott Field, will receive his commission as a second lieutenant in the communications department of the U. S. air force Aug. 2.

The bride, a graduate of Harding high school in 1930 and of Office Training school in Columbus, has been on the office staff at the Marion-Hershey Power Co., Cadet Hill, a Harding graduate of 1935, attended Ohio State university, and before entering training at Scott Field was with the ground force of the army air corps at Harlingen, Texas, before going to Scott Field in April.

They will live at 141 Lebanon avenue, Belleville, Ill.

The bridegroom's parents were unable to attend the ceremony. Mrs. Hill had been called to Seneca, Kas., by the serious illness of her mother, and Mr. Hill will report for army duty at Scott Field.

Members of the Officers' guild of the First Presbyterian church met Thursday at the home of Mrs. and Mr. Garrison Roebuck of South Prospect street. Devotions were conducted by Miss Mildred Bolander and following a short business meeting the afternoon was spent socially.

The next meeting will be Aug. 6 at the home of Miss Reba Conner at 180 North Main street.

Mrs. Edna Phillips was hostess to the J. E. N. club Thursday evening at the home of Mr. John Higgins of Forest street. Progressive Euchre was played first and second honors going to Mrs. Dolly Anthony and Mrs. Hazel Roush.

Mrs. Phillips received the galloping award and Mrs. Leah Zahn was convalesced Mrs. Naomi Williams, a guest, was presented a prize.

Miss Allene Dettwiler, for the last five years a bookkeeper at the Probst Supply company at Marion, was married on Friday evening in the Salem Reformed church at Kenton to Kenneth Hibner of Kenton.

Their attendants were Mr. and Mrs. Hanson Fewell, sister and brother-in-law of the bride. The bride wore a street length dress of pink sheer crepe, with accessories of navy blue, and a shoulder corsage of yellow roses and baby breath.

The single ring service was read by Rev. Joel C. Krumholz, Pastor of the church. Members of the immediate families of the bride and groom attended.

For her going away costume the bride chose a green and white seersucker suit with accessories of white. After a wedding trip into Michigan, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Hibner, will make their home in Kenton, where Mr. Hibner is in the grocery business.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Carter of 238 1/2 North Main street are parents of a daughter born yesterday morning at the City hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Harmon of 145 Merchant avenue are parents of a daughter born this morning at the City hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Leroy James of 144 Latourette street are the parents of a daughter born this morning at the City hospital.

Little Grand Circuit Harness Meet Enters Second Week

Stake Races Feature Final National's All Stars Favorites in Polo Grounds Tilt

Week's Racing Card.

By LOREN W. TIBBALS
Marion Star Sports Editor

As Marion's two-week Little Grand Circuit harness meeting swung into back stretch today, veteran race officials in charge of the fairground speed contests anticipated local railbirds of a thrill-packed, four-night race card starting tonight.

Premature predictions that the current program would be the best in Marion's history were proved correct early in the first three nights of racing last week. A colorful display of horses competing over the half-mile course in below last year's standards, attendance, betting and other factors are well above figures for previous meetings.

A Fourth of July crowd estimated at 2,000 was at the track for the first three days of the meet, more than 3,000. Betting for the same period totaled approximately $25,000.

During a rainy period, the local meet last night will be a routine success. Saturday's card was cancelled because of inclement weather and evening sessions were made on other nights for the horses. Spectators were unable to see today's racing as the rain was too heavy to crowd the stands and the horses were not in the best of condition.

14 Races in 2 1/2 Trot.

The 2:24 trot, which attracted 10 of the nation's leading drivers in the half-mile competition, will be run at 2:24. Many of the leading drivers and horses in the nation will be in the race. The 2:24 trot is a very important race in the harness racing world.

A 2:22 trotting event and a 2:18 trotting event will be run at 2:22 and 2:18 respectively.
